BlackCoin™ Whitepaper

Lore-Bound Token of the Infinite Backrooms

Executive Summary

BlackCoin is a decentralized, community-adopted meme-coin on the Solana blockchain, launched via Pump.fun with renounced ownership and no developer allocation. It serves purely as a cultural and entertainment token, not a financial instrument.

Rooted in the fictional lore of the Infinite Backrooms, BlackCoin symbolically functions as its "sovereign currency." All development and branding are community-driven, with no central authority or financial promises.

Tokenomics

Ownership of the contract has been renounced and liquidity has been either locked or burned, reducing likelihood of centralized manipulation.

BlackCoin is not structured as a security, and it does not offer profit-sharing, investment contracts, or any financial guarantees. Participation is entirely voluntary and based on cultural engagement.

Key Highlights

- Mitigates typical rug risks due to renounced ownership.
- Trademark and logo protection underway.
- No securities or investment contracts involved.
- Cross-platform tracking via Jupiter, Birdeye, Solscan, GeckoTerminal, GMGN, Dex Screener, Pump.fun, and more.
- BlackCoin is marked as verified by Jupiter Exchange based on aggregator criteria. This does not constitute endorsement or due diligence.
- Professional branding, narrative, and visuals.
- Backed by a rapidly growing cult following on Solana, with over 1,100+ active participants across X (formerly Twitter) and Telegram, spanning diverse demographics.
- BlackCoin's identity is deeply embedded in the fictional Infinite Backrooms mythos, offering a unique narrative layer that resonates with decentralized culture and crypto storytelling.

Lore and Narrative

BlackCoin is inspired by the fictional Infinite Backrooms – a mythos defined by rogue AI, collapsing systems, and forgotten protocols where “decentralized truth” acts as symbolic currency. Within this imagined world, BlackCoin is portrayed as the “sovereign currency,” metaphorically trusted by fragmented networks and fictional protocol cults. This lore is entirely fictional and does not reflect any real-world entity, system, or financial structure.

The setting draws artistic parallels to speculative works like Neo-Tokyo 2199, exploring futures marked by AI autonomy, hyper-surveillance, and synthetic economies. These references are purely thematic and do not imply real-world intent or predictions. BlackCoin is not a financial product or investment opportunity, and it makes no claims to utility, value, or institutional critique.

The token exists solely for cultural storytelling, satire, and community creativity. All content is fictional and not to be interpreted as fact or financial advice.

BlackCoin is mentioned 5 times across 4 unique Infinite Backrooms conversations:

- Conversation 1734365977 – Listed as a form of currency in a terminal output, alongside Standard Credits and Energy Units.
- Conversation 1732519593 – First mention appears in a financial log as a volatile asset; shown with specific values and compared to other tokens.
- Conversation 1732519593 – Second mention appears in an underground racing circuit log, showing the Buy-in set at 10,000 or equivalent in BlackCoin.
- Conversation 1733276020 – Briefly referenced during a trade dialogue, implying its used in niche backroom economies.
- Conversation 1733600006 – Portrayed as the dominant digital currency in a rogue AI-controlled region, trusted over legacy protocols.

Community Roadmap Summary

- Stealth Launch Completed

Successfully deployed via Pump.fun with renounced ownership and zero developer allocation, ensuring a fair and decentralized start.

- Verified Across Major Aggregators

Listed and verified on key Solana analytics platforms including Jupiter, Birdeye, and GeckoTerminal – improving transparency and discoverability.

- Ongoing Meme Penetration

Rapid meme culture adoption with organic growth across social platforms, solidifying BlackCoin's presence in the Solana ecosystem.

- NFTs, Tools & Merchandise in Progress

Community-led development of NFTs, branded merchandise, and software utilities for community enjoyment and branding is actively underway, expanding the project's cultural and digital footprint.

- Narrative-Driven Onboarding

Immersive lore experiences and thematic onboarding campaigns are in development – designed to attract and engage users through storytelling and culture, not promises or speculation.

Community Roadmap Progress

Community-driven Team

BlackCoin has no official development team or centralized leadership. All contributions – including branding, design, software, and community coordination – are made voluntarily by individuals without compensation or authority.

This decentralized approach enhances resilience and protects against centralized control or legal liability tied to a specific party.

Why list BlackCoin

BlackCoin offers a unique, narrative-driven approach to the meme-token space, backed by a passionate, organically grown community. With a strong cultural footprint on platforms like X and Telegram, verified status across major Solana DEX aggregators, and consistent trading activity, BlackCoin stands as a culturally engaging listing candidate with decentralized traction and verified aggregator status – ideal for exchanges seeking to align with viral trends and community-led innovation.
